DEVOTED TO PRAYER

Today, as we await Pentecost, we come to the end of the baptismal homily from Peter that we have heard over the past few weeks. This homily was written by a realist who knew the joy and the glory of a resurrection faith, but also knew that the strength of that faith would be put to the test and tried in suffering. Earlier this year we heard Jesus preach, "Blessed are you when they insult you . . . because of me" (Matthew 5:11) and this is echoed today by Peter. These words are also formed in the image of Christ who prays to the Father in heaven today, a prayer that is placed in John's Gospel right before Jesus endures his suffering and death. Our awaiting the Spirit, awaiting our mission for Christ means that we are, most likely, awaiting some sort of trial and suffering. We don't endure the same degree of persecution that Peter and John knew, but each of us has our faith put to the test eventually. And it is for this reason that we, like Jesus and like those faithful followers gathered in the upper room, devote ourselves to prayer.

GRATEFUL

As the gifts are received, several people offered prayers, some for the president, Jackson and others said they were grateful for the "preparation" that the president is bringing. First, the president is bringing the hosts, and says they are grateful for the gifts, since they are bringing them with prayer: "Blessed are they who give." We have brought forward gifts to God, and now we acknowledge the gifts that we give are "through our goodness" that we are grateful for. That we offer not wheat and oil, but wheat, "fruit of the earth and oil." We are grateful for both God's gifts and our own. This also prepares us for the Eucharist, a mystery in which we participate in a holy collaboration in which we are brought into God's divine plan.
